Hi Diane,

No, I don't know of him, but Oklahoma makes sense that he would be. I will try to do some research.

And thanks for asking about the Hodding Carter article. I am trying to systematize the papers I had. I do have that and several others, sent to me, I think, by the author of the new book on the farms.

I'll attach several. Some may duplicate some pages.

Not a relative that we know of right? But boy does he look like a Minter. Look at those eyebrows and that nose. He looks more like Dad than his brothers.

And speaking of Dad, does anyone have access to a copy of the Saturday Evening Post about Providence came out when we left Mississippi? Newspaper articles?

Love to all from sunny Tepoztlan, though we got some much needed rain for a couple of days. (I imagine most of you are VERY tired of your weather.)

Diane

PS Susan asked why I wasn't putting pictures of the garden in Facebook. I am not using Facebook these days. I have an account on Instagram in the same name. I am having great conversations with gardeners in England and Uruguay, and get to see a lot of interesting articles. I am having fun with it. Juan posts a picture everyday for business.

Just found this.

It explains one of the strange phone calls I got quite a few years ago, from a phone number in Louisiana, with someone saying, "Hello, General." He said he had looked up my phone number online and was calling from a phone booth in Louisiana (as I remember it)
