The donned her overalls and took care of our garden when in her 80s.(No retirement home for her) her last years were with Catherine and tinsley in tower apartments(one of the highest) in downtown austin.

They returned with a great sense of accomplishment, but alas Diane had only one shoe.(They each had just one good pair for school.) OK, I've put up stuff from this story in a few places too. One question, when you say "Grandmother Minter" are you referring to Harriet Maria Smith (Minter) visiting you in Mississippi in the spring or some such? Or are you referring to yourself? I've put the bit about Grandmother Minter on the Harriet Smith page, but it doesn't seem quite right.
